

Steve Hudson IEng MIWater

In my role as Electrical Projects Manager at Cambridge Water Company, I wanted to take up the challenge of the IEng professional review for my own personal development, the sense of achievement and for the value professional recognition would offer in terms of my career.

The application guides you through a process that focuses you on examining your own skills and experience against the competencies established by the Engineering Council.

IEng registration is considered a demonstration of competency for me in my role. My success in gaining professional registration as an Incorporated Engineer benefits both my organisation and myself. I consider my IEng and Corporate Membership of the Institute of Water as key milestones in my career and I now aim to continue to build upon my achievements with the professional guidance provided to me by my mentor within our company and the Institute of Water.
